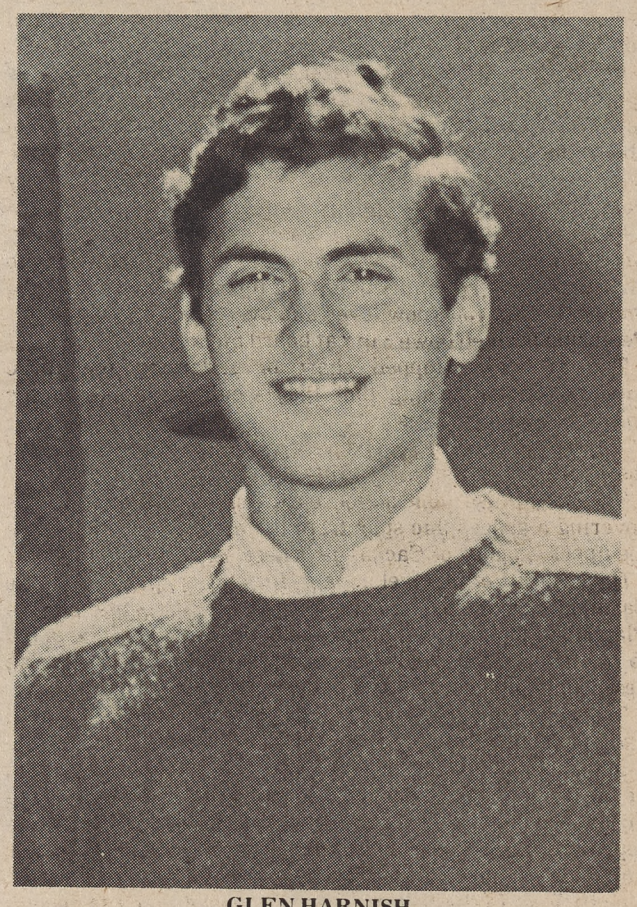
Myriad honors crown their high school careers

CLARISSA McDANIEL



GLEN HARNISH

The holder of the Outstanding Student Award for the Carmel High School Class of 1971 is a girl who loves the outdoors and working with children.

She is Clarissa McDaniel, who will be valedictorian at Carmel High School graduation ceremonies tomorrow.

Clarissa received a bronze medallion and a check for $100 from the California Savings and Loan Association for being the student who exerted "extra effort to achieve an all-round outstanding record during high school years...based on the criteria of scholastic achievement, civic responsibility and school leadership."

She won two other awards that will be of substantial help when she enrolls at Stanford in September—a California State Scholarship and a Carmel High School Scholarship.

In addition, she was one of three students named a California Scholarship Federation Sealbearer, and received a Bank of America achievement award for foreign language, which in her case is Spanish.

But when she is asked what she will remember most about her high school years, Clarissa doesn't mention any honors.

Instead, she speaks enthusiastically about the Sierra Club and long hikes through Los Padres National Forest, or about the bike club and tennis team which have occupied much of her free time.

As a member of the Spanish Club, she spent one semester tutoring migrant farm children on weekends, and she is looking forward to returning as a Camp Amigos counselor this summer.

She has no set goal in mind, although she thinks she might major in biology at Stanford.

One thing she does promise: her valedictory will not be "a typical speech."

It will not be about any particular subject, but will be geared to the graduates themselves. "I don't want anyone to feel isolated," she said last week.

Beyond that, she wouldn't give a hint of what she will say.

Glen C. Harnish, the Carmel High School salutatorian, is the graduate with honors and scholarships to spare.

Glen, who was student body president last semester, is the only student on the Monterey Peninsula to receive a four-year National Merit Scholarship, which means he ranks in the top one half of one percent of high school graduates in the United States.

In addition, Glen was awarded a scholarship to Harvard, an American Waterworks scholarship, a California School Employees Association Scholarship, a California State Scholarship, the Monterey Elks Award, the Bank of America award for science and mathematics, and a diamond Rotary Club pin for scholarship.

The tall youth, who lives on Cabrillo Street in Carmel, has also been captain of the varsity tennis team. His mother, Ella Jean Harnish, is school secretary at the high school.

His other activities include terms as president of the Inter-Club Council and Key Club and membership in the Science and Lettermen's Clubs.

His merit scholarship is sponsored by the Santa Fe Railway Foundation, a non-profit corporation sponsored by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway. The foundation provides five Merit Scholarships to students who are children of Santa Fe personnel or who are residents of states served by Santa Fe.

Glen's grandfather on his mother's side, the late Samuel Robert James, was a Santa Fe engineer in Bakersfield.

Six students share speaking honors at Middle School graduation

The traditional stains of "Pomp and Circumstance" will open the Middle School graduation program at 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Class president Charles Hirschkind, who will welcome the graduates and invited guests, will share speaking honors with five graduates -- Diane Fearn, Pat Hill, Julie Brown, Jeff Ryan and Blanca Zarazua.

Also on the program will be two numbers by the girls' choir -- "No Man is an Island" and "Try to Remember," which will be sung by Lela Beck, Julie Lipman, Barbie Leonard, Nancy Parsons, Wendy Thorpe, Luann Richards, Diane Golden, Lisa McCusker and Livia Giusi.

Honor awards will be presented by Charles Strathmeyer, president of the Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club.

All this will precede the big moment -- the presentation of the Class of 1971 by Superintendent of Schools Harris Taylor, and awarding of certificates by Dr. Hilton Bialek, a member of the board of education.

The Middle School band, under the direction of Henry Avila, will play the Recessional to conclude the ceremony.

Supervisors overturn use permit for boarding horses

The Board of Supervisors last week overruled a use permit that had been issued to Lawrence Pollard for boarding up to 10 horses on 2.9 acres on Carmel Valley Road near Schulte.

In a unanimous vote, the supervisors agreed with the objections of Pollard's neighbor that the property is too small to support that many horses.

County Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon explained he had granted the use permit to Pollard because present zoning ordinances allow persons to keep an unlimited number of horses in residential one-acre districts provided the horses are owned by residents.

Slimmon also noted that Pollard's application for a use permit had been approved by the Lower Valley Advisory Committee, Pollard did not intent to rent horses, Slimmon said, but only to board his own and some belonging to friends.

"I realize by zoning that a man could have 10 horses of his own there," Supervisor Loren Smith said, "But I'm against the scattering of commercial operations in that area."

Supervisor Willard Branson agreed that "too many horses are involved," and Supervisor Warren Church suggested that the county might do well to amend the zoning ordinance to establish a certain amount of land per horse, possibly a half-acre.

The supervisors then voted to uphold the appeal filed by Harry K. Batlin, a neighbor of Pollard's, and revoke the use permit.

Still another application for boarding horses will be considered by Slimmon at 1:35 p.m. tomorrow.

Ed Haber, who purchased 28 acres of the former S.F.B. Morse Ranch last year, is asking for a use permit for the "training, boarding and pasturing" of 50 horses on that property. He is also requesting a use permit for the commercial sale of feed.

The Morse property is unique in the Valley because it is the only parcel in a KGJB5 district, which means five-acre minimum building sites. The five-acre minimum was applied to the property several years ago at the request of the late Mr. Morse.

CVPOA affirms stand on single district

Directors of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association last week reaffirmed their position that Carmel Valley should be kept intact under any redistricting plan approved by the Board of Supervisors.

(The supervisors are holding a special hearing on redistricting at 2 p.m. today, and are expected to vote on final boundaries next Tuesday at 2 p.m.)

Directors voted to send a letter to supervisors stating their opposition to any split of Carmel Valley into two or more supervisorial districts. The letter also asked for information about the city of Monterey's proposal that districts be relocated so that three supervisors represent the Monterey Peninsula and two the Salinas Valley.

"This is a new wrinkle in the whole picture," George Lockwood commented. "I think we should encourage somebody to investigate the possibility of having three supervisors on the Peninsula...As you know, over and over again the Monterey Peninsula is voted down 3 to 2 at board meetings."

The directors stopped short of endorsing the three supervisor idea, feeling that they would first like to see specific boundary lines.

"There's one thing I feel sure about," St. E.P. Tyner told the board. "I'm against cutting up Carmel Valley."

The board also took action on a number of other issues covering a geographic span from the mouth of the Valley to the upper reaches of Cachagua. These were the high points:

On the Val Verde development, formally called "Casas de Carmel," the board endorsed recent statements by the Planning Commission that more consideration must be given to traffic, general design, open space provisions and aesthetics before a subdivision map can be approved.

The CVPOA's views will be sent in a letter of "approval and support" to the Planning Commission.

Moving east a few miles, the board discussed the situation at Riverside Park, which comes before the Planning Commission at 3:30 this afternoon. Bill Brown was named to represent the board's view that the campground should be limited to 15 sites for overnight trailers or campers.

Getting up to the Village area, the board voted to recommend to the supervisors that no decision be made on the Valley Ford commercial complex until problems of traffic, parking and drainage have been resolved and consideration given to a master plan for a road through Carmel Valley Village.

The board also stated its beliefs that developer Robert Bolman should be required to annex the property to a drainage district. (This provision, already established by the Planning Commission, comes up before the supervisors on appeal on June 22.)

As for plans to subdivide a portion of Featherbow Ranch in the Cachagua in 40-acre parcels, the board appointed Robert Marble to investigate the situation and do what he can to encourage that a master plan be drawn up for the entire Cachagua area.

Flooding and flood insurance, presumably of interest to property owners all along the Carmel River, was also discussed.

CVPOA president George Sackman said he had received a letter from Arthur Atteridge, chairman of the board of supervisors, saying the County has no plans to establish a flood plain district in Carmel Valley because previous efforts along that line have met with strong opposition from property owners.

But because a recent CVPOA questionnaire indicated support for flood plain zoning, the directors agreed to contact several property owners and urge them to pursue the matter further with the supervisors.

Before the lengthy meeting adjourned, Col. George Brown, who was sitting in the audience, urged the board to assist in the establishment of a legal defense fund for the members of the Peace and Quiet Committee named in a $1.2 million damage suit filed recently by Al and Connie Hood.

The board discussed the situation but did not take any action.

A TENT OR A TRAILER? County officials who toured Riverside Park weren't qhite sure what the proper definition of this camper tent would be. Park owner Jesse West hopes to make the campgrounds available to 24 camper units, including trailers, and 23 tents, if one can distinguish between the two. "I would rather have five trailer trucks or campers to one tent," West told the visitors, "because they're much cleaner." West said he has stopped allowing day picnickers to use the property "because they're nothing but trouble."

How CVPOA members feel about many Valley issues, problems

Members of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association are being urged to support OLAF, the Carmel Area Coalition and the proposed Open Space and Recreation District in a news letter going out this week from board chairman George Sackman.

The letter also includes this compilation on returns on a questionnaire mailed to all CVPOA members earlier this year:

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

A BLENDING OF THE TRADITIONAL AND "NOW" was the wedding of Sidney Richerts who became the bride of William Gregory Pryor in a ceremony performed at the Church of Religious Science in Monterey. The bride is the daughter of former Valley residents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Richerts who now make their home in Salinas. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Howard J. Liggett IV of the Valley and Arizona, and the late Cole Pryor.

When the young couple learned that Dr. Carleton Whitehead, an associate of the late Mr. Pryor, would be on the Peninsula for a seminar, they asked that he perform the afternoon ceremony. With the bride's Victorian styled floor length white lace gown she carried an old fashioned nosegay of spring flowers. The groom wore a suit of brown suede.

Arriving from Manitou Springs, Colo. to serve as matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Roger (Allison Richerts) Gardner. Her gown was a white eyelet embroidery top and lavender flowered skirt, also complimented by a nosegay.

The groom's brother, Richard Jeffrey Pryor of the Valley, served as best man and Jim Richerts, brother of the bride as usher.

A reception followed at the home of the groom's parents, 8 Marquard Road. Orange carnations trimmed the wedding cake in keeping with the reception's coordinated decor of shocking pink, yellow and orange. The couple's favorite Beatle records provided background music while Mrs. Lou Gardner and Mrs. Conrad Olsen assisted with party preparations.

A wedding dinner honoring the couple at Gallatin's was attended by Dr. and Mrs. Carleton Whitehead of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Liggett, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richerts, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Gardner and Dick Pryor.

Out of town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Richerts, Alameda, the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Richerts of Diamond Springs, her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James (Pat Swan) Kindt, San Rafael, the groom's uncle and aunt, and Lori Swan, her cousin, who recently returned from Europe. Sidney, a graduate of Carmel High School is employed at the Bank of America in Carmel Valley. Bill, also a Carmel High School graduate, graduated from Monterey Peninsula College and is attending California State Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo. The couple is making their home on Marquard Road.

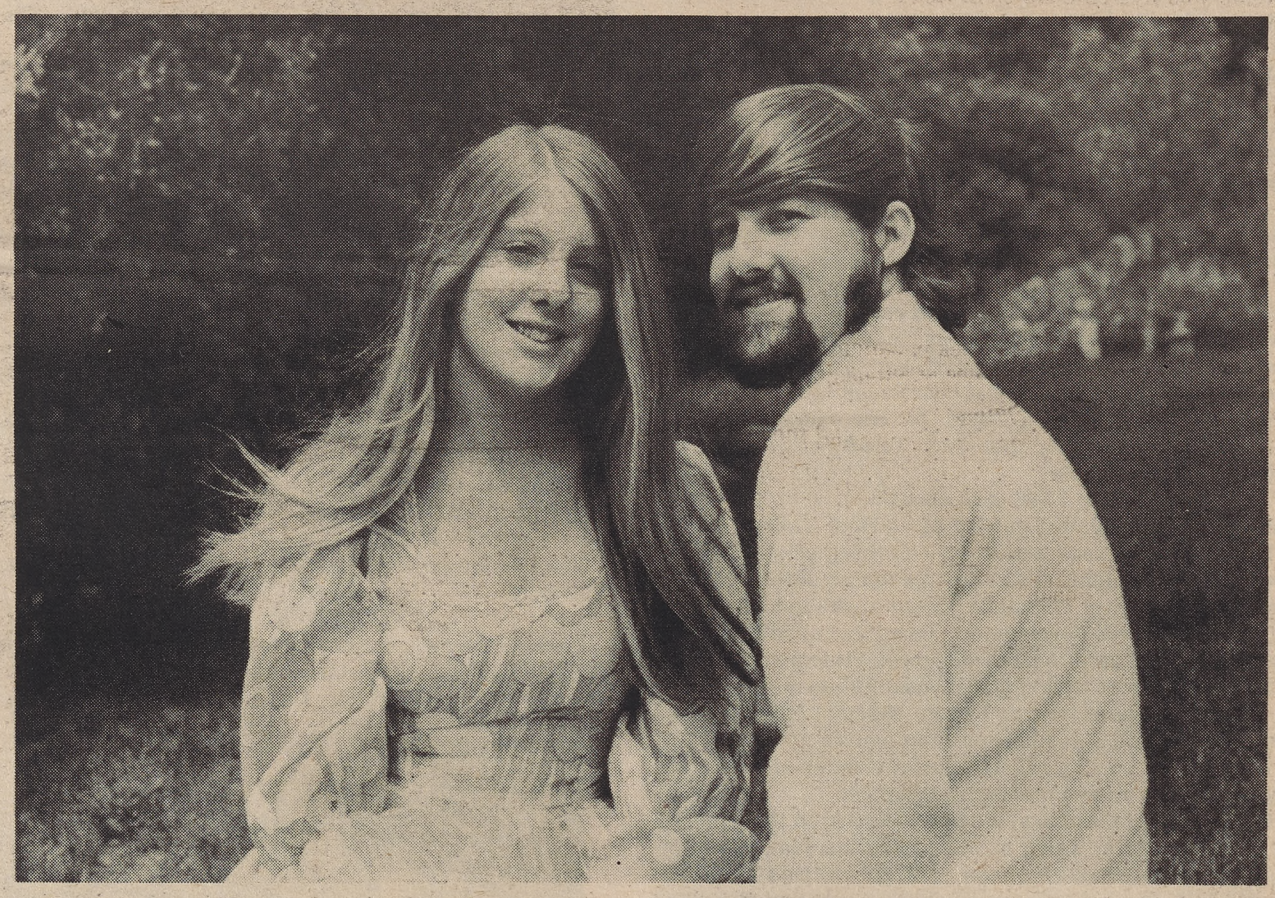
IT WAS SPRINGTIME both in and outdoors at the May benefit bridge and canasta party sponsored last week at the Fellowship Hall by the Chapel Guild of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel. Mrs. Francis Dane and her co-hostess, Mrs. Mary Young, had an assist from the old Carmel Valley sun to compliment their springtime party decor which was enjoyed by seven tables of bridge and four of canasta. For dessert they selected a favorite recipe from the Valley Fare Cook Book—Lemon cake topped with whipped cream and strawberries.



MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM G. PRYOR

Winner of the first place bridge award was Ginny Adair of Carmel. Ramona Gahl of Hacienda Carmel placed second. First place in Canasta was won by Mary Wolfe and Gretchen Glod was second.

Table prizes—sachet pillows tied with ribbons of Spring shades—were presented to Rosa Clark, Tillie MacDonald, Kathryn Walker, Vera Bautz, Azealea Kooch, Florence Holme, Ruth Wade, Dorothy Chappell, Sara Oppenheimer, Koz French and Mrs. Mildred Grant of Baton Rouge, Louisiana who was the guest of Dorothy Chappell.

On June 16, the date of the next party, Mrs. James (Helen) Fitch begins her third year as social chairman of the club. Under Helen's skillful guidance, the parties have grown until two assistants are necessary to help with the reservations. For canasta tables you are invited to phone Mrs. Vera Stokes 659-4286, while bridge players may call Mrs. Jean Stekley, 659-2782. Helen extends an invitation to anyone who enjoys cards (especially new residents) to attend and promises a special gift for each one who arrives to help her begin her third year as chairman.

Guests were Mrs. Leo Borelli, her mother, Mrs. Mary Bruce of San Francisco, Mrs. Don Holland and Mrs. Mack McNulty. The door prize was won by Mrs. Leroy Dufur. An election of officers for the coming year was the main topic of business. A TREMENDOUS SUCCESS was the Youth Science Center family picnic held last weekend at the Swiss Rifle Range. As usual, the Frog Jumping Contest climaxed the annual affair with "Super Frog," a Salinas entry setting a new record with his jump of 12 feet, 3 in. Disappointments of the afternoon included the lack of Carmel Valley entries (there must be a champion among the amphibian population of the Valley) and the performance of Assemblyman Bob Wood's entry, "Arroyo Seco." "An old oak leaf cluster" to Bob's sportsmanship...he allowed himself to be dunked numerous times in the Dunkin' Booth.

And speaking of the Youth Science Center..."A cactus spine" to the meanest burglar in Monterey County. The Center was entered last weekend (via a window knocking down a bird's nest and killing the baby birds) with the following thefts reported to the Sheriff's office...four unweaned kittens, a movie projector, a six-month-old parrot, tools, a large rabbit, six guinea pigs, and a mynah bird. The latter may just be the thief's undoing because he talks. Listen carefully to the next mynah bird that you happen to meet and if he says, "Can You Talk?" "Good-bye," "Hello, George," or gives a wolf whistle that shatters the sound barrier...call the Monterey County Sheriff's Department!

NICOLE MARIE BROWN - 7 pounds 8½ ounces of "women's liberation" - arrived April 17 at the Community Hospital. "Baby Brown" had been the topic of discussion for months prior to her arrival between her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Brown and the board of directors at Salinas Valley Memorial Hospital. The Browns had applied for permission for Nicole's father to be present in the delivery room—a request which bogged down in red tape and changed Nicole's hometown from Salinas to Carmel. Meetings continue at the Salinas Hospital where eventually by-laws will be rewritten so that future fathers may watch the birth of their Boys were Chip Schacher and Rogan, Shane and Garth Hattan.

The finale was a fast-moving demonstration of Balance Beam, Uneven Bars and Free Exercise by girls from the Monterey Peninsula Gymnasitcs Club whose first year of competition placed them high on the winner's list. Accepting an ovation for their performance at Carmel High School were Anita Campbell, Susan Davey, Beth Faulkenberry, Jenifer Hubbert, Karen Limov, Susan Schachter and Carolyn Walker.

Camp Quien Sabe expands program to include all the family

Camp Quien Sabe, the summer camp program directed by the Monterey Park and Recreation department, will be operating this summer with programs for both children and families.

A family weekend camp is planned for the first time this summer—June 18, 19 and 20. The program will provide a full weekend of activities at Camp Quien Sabe in Big Sur, for 20 families.

The cost for the camp is $7.00 per adult (12 and up) $5.00 children; $1.00 children four and under, and covers everything but transportation. The family needs only to provide sleeping bags and clothing. All cooking is to be done by the regular camp cook staff. A program of activities is planned to involve all members of the family.

Quien Sabe for children also has a new variation this summer. There will be two regular 5-day sessions and one new six day session. The five day sessions run Monday through Friday the weeks of June 14-18 and June 21-25. The six day session runs Sunday through Saturday, June 27-July 3.

This unusually successful children's camp program is a low key, quiet one that provides a really fun week of camping for quiet children as well as more active ones.

The goal of this camping program is to teach and encourage children to live in a natural setting without altering or damaging that environment. Camp Quien Sabe provides youngsters with an opportunity to live in an area that is essentially unchanged by man. The importance of living with nature, not at odds with nature, is stressed throughout the program.

The camp for boys and girls aged 8 to 14 is located at the Big Sur State Park organization camp. The campers, about 50 a week, will be transported by school bus to the camp and return.

Camp Quien Sabe is situated in a beautiful redwood forest bordered on one edge of the Big Sur River. The camp is equipped with modern kitchen and restroom facilities and has a private beach on the river for swimming.

Campers and staff sleep out of doors in sleeping bags under the redwoods. Each day is ended with a rousing campfire program that both campers and staff participate in and enjoy.

Quien Sabe has a full time experienced staff, many of whom have been associated with the camp for years. The camp will be directed again this summer by Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Reed, Peninsula teachers who have had long association with the Monterey Park and Recreation Department.

The fee for the five day sessions will be $30 for Monterey residents and $35 for non-residents. The six day session will be $36 for residents and $40 for non-residents.

More information may be obtained by phoning 372-8121, ext. 281. Reservations are now being taken at the Park and Recreation office, 546 Dutra Street, Monterey, (in back of Colton Hall).

New concepts to guide Rippling River School

Hal Seybold, currently an elementary school principal in the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District, will direct Rippling River School when it starts the 1971-72 school year in the fall.

Started this spring as a private alternative school, Rippling River expects to have a fall enrollment of 30 to 35 children from 6 to 14 years old.

Emphasis of the school will be on individualization of instruction within an atmosphere that will allow the student to pursue his studies and personal envolvement at his own rate of learning and depth of interest. Careful consideration will be given to children's specific interests and abilities in preparing the school environment.

The school will have a full curriculum to include reading, mathematics, science, cultural studies, music, language arts and arts and crafts. The subject content and instructional methods are designed to compliment an experiential and humanistic approach to learning.

The educational theories of the British Infant School, Goodlad's non-gradedness, George Brown's confluent eduction and Piaget's theory of child development have been combined to serve as the philosophical and operational foundation of the school.

Sensitivity to the child's space in his culture; pupil fulfillment; teacher availability; competency and ability to listen; student decision making and permission to choose are among several additional characteristics contributing to the school's philosophy.

For additional information relative to the fall enrollment, call Hal Seybold, 624-1374.

Bids out for road repair work in mid-Valley, Cachagua

Supervisor Willard Branson announced last week that plans and specifications have been approved for construction on Carmel Valley Road between the Begonia Gardens and Robinson Canyon Road, and also for the construction of two bridges south of the Cachagua Road intersection.

The work along Carmel Valley Road will consist of grading roadbeds, placing aggregate base and asphalt concrete surfacing for left turn lanes at Tierra Grande Drive, Dorris Road and Berwick Drive, and construction of a storm drain system at the Begonia Gardens. Shoulders will also be widened.

The second project involves construction of two reinforced concrete bridges, each 30 feet wide with two-lane paved approaches.

Bids will be received at the office of the clerk of the Board of Supervisors at the Monterey County Courthouse in Salinas until June 24 at 2 p.m. Construction will start shortly thereafter.

Petpourri

By JUDITH A. EISNER

IF YOU WERE to poll the staff members of the Monterey County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and ask them what aspect of humane work they dread most, you'd probably receive a unanimous reply: "Facing the spring kitten season."

"Kitten season" is that time of year that begins at the end of March and continues for four months, until well into July. All through the year the S.P.C.A. receives unwanted dogs and cats, but during "kitten season" they are deluged with surplus kittens.

Because animal reproduction is still far more closely attuned with seasonal changes in daylight hours, just about every unspayed female cat of kitten-bearing age conceives and bears a litter during this four-month span.

The California Branch of the Humane Society of the United States estimated last year that over 1,000 puppies and kittens were born here every hour. That adds up to 24,000 animals a day, or a staggering 8,760,000 annually (The figure goes up each year because some of the puppies and kittens mature and reproduce.)

HSUS estimates that out of every 1,000 animals born, there are suitable homes for only 200. The rest must die -- humanely and painlessly in some S.P.C.A. shelter if they are lucky; slowly, lingeringly and tragically if they are left to fend for themselves.

Last April, the Monterey County S.P.C.A. received 135 kittens. April is really the first month of "kitten season" for the S.P.C.A. because most kittens are kept at home until they are six weeks old.

This April the S.P.C.A. received 309 kittens! They anticipate an even greater volume for May, June and July ... as many as 50 kittens a day are received.

In addition to the carloads of kittens received by the S.P.C.A. and the Monterey County Pound at Marina, private individuals all over the Peninsula are doing their best to find homes for their kittens. Newspaper classified advertisements offer them free to good homes, as do signs tacked up on local bulletin boards and posted in front of houses.

YOU DON'T HAVE to be a genius or a mathematician to understand the animal overpopulation problem.

Any given female dog or cat is capable of reproducing by the time she is about six months old. If she has only four offspring in her first litter, approximately half will be females. (This rule of genetics averages out eventually, accounting for all-male or all-female litters, etc.)

Within six months from their birth, the original mother and her two daughters are capable of reproducing. Those three animals then produce four babies apiece or 12. Six months later, there are nine females to have litters -- for an approximate total of 36 offspring, (at four per litter), half of which are females.

Within a year's time, there are 27 females reproducing, for a total of 108 babies, or 54 females. And so on.

A female dog or cat, left uncontrolled or unspayed, is individually responsible for well over 4,000 offspring in a few years of reproductive life.

And no one wants the babies.

A conscientious owner can more easily control the reproductive activity of his female dog than his female cat. Cats contribute to their own undoing by their very nature.

For one thing, many female cats are quite capable of bearing four litters a year. And each litter may well contain six or more healthy kittens.

FOR ANOTHER THING, female cats in season are not easy to deny. Female dogs are not especially sexy -- except to male dogs. Female cats are all Jezebels when they are in heat, yowling and rolling about and giving you no respite in their demand to be mated. And the tomcats under the window don't add to your peace and quiet.

Thus, all too many people simply open the door and let the cat have her way -- and, in 63 days, her kittens.

Besides, kittens are cute, and hardly any trouble at all ...

Until they grow up and no one wants them.

Unless you can afford to board your female cat several times a year, whenever she comes into season -- which is a frequent and irregular thing with many cats -- you have no options. You must have her spayed if you harbor any pretenses of loving animals.

Spaying, unfortunately, is a costly -- although routine and relatively safe -- operation. Ultimately, through the combined efforts of the S.P.C.A. and the local taxpayers (who pay for each kitten put to death by the County Pound) a County-supported spaying clinic must come into being. Such a clinic would make feasible spaying any female dog or cat for a minimum charge -- less than half that charged by a local veterinarian.

UNTIL THE TIME when local government sees fit to sponsor such a clinic, the burden is on the individual pet owner. If you own a female cat, it is incumbent upon you to see to it that she does not have litter after litter of kittens who are doomed to die.

For that reason, we give you the cold statistics: 11,967 unwanted animals were received by the S.P.C.A. last year. Most of them were put to sleep. Painlessly, true; but necessary only because of people's irresponsibility.

If you really love animals, the idea of more than 9,000 being put to sleep makes you sick. Don't permit your pet to add to this ghastly toll.

9 Carmel High seniors from Carmel Valley

By PAT GRIFFITH

For years, it seems, these kids have been going off at all sorts of odd hours in the morning, wandering across fields and down the slopes of Carmel Valley to wait for the school bus.

Who can now count the forgotten lunches, the lost sweaters, the times the bus was missed and a harrassed parent had to drive full-speed down Carmel Valley Road to school?

And how many times have they come back at the end of the day, walking slowly up hills grown steeper in the gathering dusk, clutching books and gym clothes and expectations yet unfulfilled?

The familiar routine ends tomorrow for members of the Class of 1971. And among those who will no longer be riding buses up and down that long Carmel Valley Road are these graduates who have earned extra recognition:

Bob Beckstrom — An accomplished saxophone player, Bob graduates with three special music awards — the Sousa Band Award, the Marine Distinguished Musician Award and the MPC Jazz Award.

Although he has enjoyed both history and English courses, music has been his main interest, and he plans to major in music at MPC. Eventually he might like to combine his musical talents with religion, possibly by writing religious music.

Bob has also been busy with dramatic productions, including the CHS presentations of "Carnival" and "Carousel" and the Carmel Studio Theatre's performances of "Annie Get Your Gun" and "There's a Girl in My Soup." He'll spend the summer working at the new Jerry Lewis theater on Highway 1.

xxx

Susan Domke — Susan's high school career has revolved around dramatics. She appeared in "Merton at the Movies," was assistant director for "Carousel" and stage manager for "Carnival"; and is spending her final week at Carmel High directing a one-act play in Brey Hall, "Ways and Means."

When she isn't at the high school, she is most often found at the Studio Theatre in Carmel, where she is stage manager for "How to Succeed in Business" and "Hello, Dolly."

Not surprisingly, all this acting and directing talent won Susan the Bank of America award for drama. She plans to attend UCLA and major in theater arts.

xxx

Don Draper — Math, computer sciences and physics are the three prime academic interests of Don, holder of the Bank of America award for math. He is also graduating with a letter of commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Program for scoring in the upper two percent of all graduates across the country.

Don also won a first prize at the annual High School Physics Symposium held at the University of Santa Clara.

Don plans to play some golf this summer, when he isn't sleeping or working with a computer at the Naval Postgraduate School. In September he'll enroll at the University of Claifornia at Santa Cruz.

xxx

Dan Campbell — The Monterey Peninsula may have another champion race car driver in its future in the person of Dan Campbell. According to his mother, Dan was putting together model cars before he was old enough to read directions. He hasn't stopped since.

In his spare time Dan likes to rebuild Porsches or other speedy cars, and his mechanical skill was good enough to earn him the Bank of America award for excellence in trade and industrial arts.

Photography is another interest of Dan's, and he just won the grand prize at the Seaside High School Film Festival for a movie he filmed entitled "Little Things."

Eventually he would like to race Formula 1 cars, but first will come a summer and fall working at the Mid-Valley ARCO station. He plans to enroll in Cal Poly next January to study architecture or mechanical engineering.

xxx

Greg Granoff — It wasn't until his junior year that Greg became immersed in musical activities at Carmel High School, but he quickly made up for lost time. Already an accomplished pianist, he became a bassoon player in the band and played for "Carnival" and "Carousel."

Greg also played the piano for "Merton of the Movies" and will be in the Studio Theatre's productions of "How to Succeed" and "Hello, Dolly" this summer.

Greg is graduating with a California State Scholarship, a University of the Pacific Scholarship and a Bank of America award for outstanding achievement in fine arts.

This summer the Music Teachers Association on the Monterey Peninsula is paying his way to attend a 6-week workshop for pianists at MPC.

"I'd like to do something innovative with music," Greg says. "My interests are tending more towards composition or music history."

xxx

Linda (Ronnie) Petree — The winner of the Bank of America award for home economics insists she can't cook at all. But sewing is something else again.

Ronnie discovered a way for creative self-expression in Carmel High's home economics classes, where she designed and made most of her own wardrobe. Her most elaborate creation to date is her prom dress of brown velveteen, with quilted sleeves dotted with seed pearls.

Ronnie's work didn't stop at the classroom. She completely redecorated her room at home and reupholstered several pieces of furniture.

She hopes to find a job for the summer, to help with expenses when she enrolls in MPC in September.

xxx

Barbara Roberts — The National Orchestra Award and a Rotary Club gold scholarship pin went to Barbara Roberts, a vivacious blonde who is equally talented as a violinist and a journalist.

Barbara joined the Sandpiper staff as a senior and wound up as editor. Along the way she developed a new interest in photography, and gets the most enjoyment out of photographing small children or beach scenes.

She hopes to find a way to combine her twin interests in music and journalism, and expects to major in both subjects at U.C. Santa Barbara. This summer she'll be working and living at the Carmel Valley Inn.

xxx

Marsha Wilsey — The University of the Pacific is the next destination for Marsha Wilsey, senior class secretary and winner of a California State Scholarship. She also holds a Rotary Club bronze pin for scholarship.

She thinks she might major in history and eventually teach "although the job market isn't very promising."

While at Carmel High, Marsha thinks she got the most out of a course on consumer math, which included practical information on insurance, social security, "and lots of things you really need to know."

She has a full-time job this summer, but will spend her free hours swimming or listening to her large collection of records.

xxx

Bill Yates — Cornell University is going to gain a crack golfer when Bill Yates arrives in September on a NROTC scholarship. Bill, who has lived in the Valley five years, has a 6 handicap on the golf course. He also played freshman basketball and JV football.

Academically, Bill's interests lie in the realm of math and science. He was awarded the Rotary Club's gold scholarship pin.

Bill will major in engineering at Cronell and then join the Navy. He is going to wait to "see what it's like" before deciding if he will make the Navy his career.

The Yates family is moving to Glen Arm, Md., this weekend, where Bill's father has been transferred to a new position with the McCormick Co.

Graduation leads to Disneyland for Carmel High School seniors

Graduation ceremonies tomorrow will be the beginning—but certainly not the end—of a long, long evening for the Carmel High School Class of 1971.

The graduation will be held on the football field at the high school, starting at 7 p.m. There will be two student speakers, Salutatorian Glen Harnish and Valedictorian Clarissa McDaniel.

After diplomas have been awarded and the ceremony ends, around 9 p.m., the Carmel High School band will start playing. And it will keep playing until midnight, when the new graduates will board buses for an all-night drive to Disneyland.

The class is scheduled to return about 6 a.m. Saturday, just in time to sleep through the first weekend of summer vacation.

A conversation with graduation speakers

'Freedom' is the key word in describing Middle School

BY PAT GRIFFITH

Students at Carmel Middle School enjoy much more freedom than do most of their contemporaries attending junior high school elsewhere. And while this freedom is a little frightening to incoming sixth graders, it is what graduating eighth graders appreciate and respect most about the school.

These were some of the thoughts expressed last week by six students who will share honors as graduation speakers tomorrow. They are student body president Pat Hill, class president Charles Hirschkind, and Blanca Zarazua, Jeff Ryan, Diane Fearn and Julie Brown.

During an informal conversation a few days before graduation, they shared some ideas about the school they are leaving and what it has meant to them.

They all agreed with Julie's observation that "there's much more freedom here than at other schools." On a student exchange day, they visited other junior highs on the Monterey Peninsula and were unfavorably impressed with the restrictions and "feeling of repression" they experienced.

"Freedom is hard on some people," Julie continued, "and they can be tempted to take advantage of it."

"But not too many do," said Diane. "You grow along with the freedom, and I think most kids respect what they have here."

What is this freedom? It's being able to chose what to wear to school, what courses to take during an optional first period, what projects and special interests to pursue in required courses and, in some cases, what standards should be applied to one's own achievement.

Above all, according to the graduates, freedom at Middle School connotes an attitude of openness and flexibility on the part of the staff and teachers.

"It's much easier to learn that way," Pat said. "You feel more free to take in stuff than you would if everything was always set out a certain way."

In this "open" atmosphere, these graduates felt they had a large measure of responsibility for what they did, or didn't, learn.

"It's really up to the individual to learn," Blanca said flatly. Diane agreed, adding that "teachers can guide you, but you have to want to learn yourself."

"I think it's a combination of both," Pat said. "It takes the teacher to get something for you, and then the rest is up to you."

Not surprisingly, they found they got the most out of classes they liked the best.

For Diane it was "math with Mrs. Mason, where I've learned more than anywhere." For Blanca it was music and the help she received from the band teacher, Henry Avila, while Julie praised another math teacher, "Mr. Klaumann, who taught me responsibility and how to get my work done without complaining."

The industrial arts class ranked as "most worthwhile" with Jeff and Charles, while Pat coupled that course with math, "which is my favorite subject and I learn a lot there because I want to."

Jeff noted that there seems to be a school-wide tendency for grades to drop as students progress from the sixth to the eighth grade. "At least there aren't as many in the class on the honor roll in the eighth grade as there were in the sixth."

Charles suggested that "sometimes you get bored with the everyday things you do," so that by the eighth grade some students tend to slack off.

"I think it's because this is the last year you have to fool around," Diane laughed. "When you get in high school you have to bear down and think about college or jobs and all that. So this is the last year to really be young. So enjoy it while it's there."

To the inevitable adult question "what about drugs?" Julie had a blunt response.

"It's overpublisized. There aren't that many drugs here. A few may be on drugs, but then that gets overemphasized. It's certainly nothing so that parents should keep kids from going here. After all, they have to learn about things sometime."

Diane said that community counselor John Frykman "can get along with kids and he's okay, but some of the people who have come in to talk -- wow, are they awful!"

Jeff said he knew of many eighth graders who didn't take Frykman's optional course on drugs "because we'd all been through that special Lockheed program last year, and it was so terrible, really bad. So they didn't want to take any more courses."

"I think the prisoners (from Soledad) who came and talked about drugs helped a lot more than any course," Julie said, "because they could talk from real experience."

"That also changed my opinion about some of the inmates," Diane added. "That was a good program. But when you get some detectives coming in and showing samples of different drugs, it just turns people off. They haven't had any experience with drugs themselves, and it just doesn't work."

If they suddenly had full power to operate Middle School themselves, what would they do?

"Have longer dances, so they're not over at 10," said Julie.

"I'd have a free campus," Pat said, "except it is a problem because we're not really close to any stores. And there'd be a problem with the sixth graders, because they couldn't handle it -- going off campus and all."

"I think there's too big a difference between the sixth and eighth grade," answered Diane. "I'd keep the sixth grade in grammar school."

Pat said he would try to promote a "better student council feeling. There's sort of a dull feeling about the student council, with the feeling you have to do things a certain way. And lots of people get on student council just to get out of class."

If Charles were in charge, he would have students sit in on all meetings with the faculty and would generally include them in planning sessions. But he'd keep the sixth grade at Middle School where it is.

"They might as well get used to it," he said. "You can't hold them back forever."

Jeff's suggestion would be to have more joint student-faculty activities such as softball games and other informal get-togethers.

No one is yet willing to make a long-term committment on college, career or post-school goals. But all come from homes where the preference, if not flat assumption, is that they will go on to college.

"Of course my parents want me to go to college," Diane said, "but they're not going to make me go if I don't want to. Right now I do think I want to go to college, but I may change my mind."

"I think my parents will give me a choice, but they'd really rather I went to college," Jeff said.

College means money, and no one in this group expects a free ride.

"I think my parents plan for me to go to college, and they'll have enough money to start me out, but then I'll have to work," Pat commented.

"I think it's all right if parents help out to start with," Charles chimed in, "but then you would be responsible for yourself if possible."

Blanca agreed, saying that "if you pay your own way to college, it means you'll really want to get something out of it."

Out of these six students, only Jeff and Diane are relative "newcomers" to the area. Jeff's family moved here two years ago from Eugene, Oregon, while Diane arrived at about the same time from San Jose.

Jeff misses the outdoor life in Oregon and the advantages he had enjoyed living near the University of Oregon campus. But Diane thinks Carmel is "one hundred percent better" than San Jose.

"I don't know where I'd live but here," Julie said. "Everyplace else has smog."

Added Blanca: "I feel like this is the only place in the world."

For this group, the big moment came Friday, when they were greeted by Fire Chief Chip Collins, left, and assistant chief Don Laird. Collins gave them a short talk on fire safety, with lesson number one for children being -- DON'T PLAY WITH MATCHES.

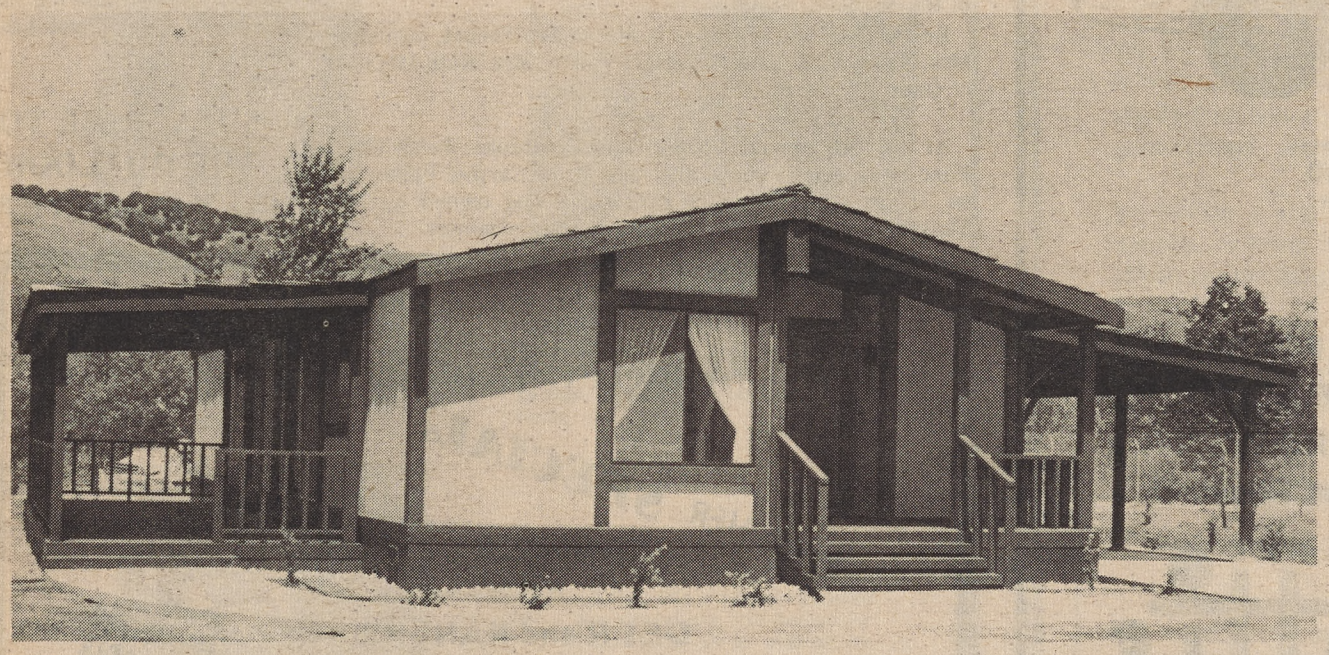
"Mobile Home" open for viewing



THIS PROTOTYPE "MOBILE HOME" (wheels are hidden underneath) will be open for public viewing Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on property owned by Dr. Joseph Noto on Schulte Road. Noto hopes to put 75 homes of this type on his 16-acre parcel, which is located on the north side of Schulte Road midway between the bridge and the turn-off for Saddle Mountain Ranch. The Planning Commission has already denied Noto's request for rezoning to allow a mobile home park, but the matter comes up again on an appeal to the Board of Supervisors on June 22 at 2 p.m. The interior of this model contains a master bedroom and bath with a side sitting or sewing room, a second bedroom and bath, a living room and dining alcove, fully-equipped kitchen and separate laundry room with washer and dryer. Heavy beamed ceilings extend through the house. Noto has added a free-standing carport on the right and a covered deck on the left. It took three days to get this home firmly located on its site, and while it is technically moveable, Noto says it would be his intention that homes remain in place so that landscaping will not be disturbed. This home would sell for approximately $23,000, a price Noto feels would attract retired or older middle-income couples.

SUMMERTIME MUST BE HERE, no matter what the weatherman says, because this lemonade stand made an appearance near the Village last week. Diane McKenzie is pouring a glassful for Sandra Pryer, while Kathryn Kern stands by to collect a penny.

BEST OF BREED at the 7th Annual Cabrillo Doberman Pinscher Club specialty show and obedience trial Saturday was the red and tan dog, Ch. Weichardt's Rosen Cavalier, C.D., owned by Terry and Denyse Lee of Concord and handled by Marjorie Anagnost of San Anselmo, (left). Judge C.K. Etner of Houston, Tex. Top Doberman Pinscher award to Concord dog

Unseasonable chill winds and fog were unable to dampen the enthusiasm of the 175 Doberman Pinschers, their owners, handlers and fans who competed in the Cabrillo Doberman Pinscher Club's 7th Annual Specialty Show and Obedience Trial at the Carmel Valley Inn.

Although the bulk of the entries were California-owned Dobermans, out-of-state dogs came from as far away as Kentucky and Tennessee.

As spectators huddled at ringside, some zipped halfway into sleeping bags and wrapped in blankets, Judge C.K. Etner of Houston, Texas braved the cold to select his winning dogs.

Winners Dog and Best of Winners was the red and tan dog, Riobeau's General Vallejo, owned by Dennis and Sandra Bradley of Anaheim; Winners Bitch was David and Jane Pines' Teutonia's Sunbeam from Fairfax, Calif. Both dogs won five points toward their championships, with General Vallejo completing his at this show.

Sun broke through the low clouds in time for Best of Breed judging in mid-afternoon, and Mr. Etner chose Ch. Weichardt's Rosen Cavalier, C.D., owned by Terry and Denyse Lee of Concord to carry home the silverware. Ch. Commando's Mews P.T. was awarded Best Opposite Sex.

In obedience competition, High Scoring Dog was Morgansonne's Tina Rufina, owned by Dr. Brent Madill and Ruth Morgan of Hanford. Tina's score was 196½ out of a possible 200. In garnering this victory, she defeated Black Marx von Schlegel, C.D.X. who was competing for the third consecutive year in hopes of permanently retiring the Sco-Har-Bar special trophy offered by the Harold Waymires of Carmel Valley.

Best of Breed, at the Del Monte Kennel Club's all-breed dog show was Riobeau's General Vallejo, who went on to win first in the Working Group.

Best of Opposite Sex was Ch. Marks-Tey Sonnet, owned by Mrs. Nancy K. Hogans of Carmel Valley. Mrs. Ruth McCourt of Ontario judged.

xxx

At the 12th Annual Golden Gate Pembroke Welsh Corgi Fanciers specialty show, also held at the Carmel Valley Inn on Saturday, Ch. Halmor Creston, a dog owned by Mr. Thaxter of Berkeley, Cal., took Best of Breed honors.

Community

A drive to establish a County Service Area for fire protection in the mid-Valley was launched last week with the backing of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association.

CVPOA board member Steve Thigpen, who had headed a fact-finding committee investigating various alternatives for fire protection, told the CVPOA directors that formation of a service area appears to be the most logical and economical way to handle the problem.

A county service area would be established under the jurisdiction of the board of supervisors, as opposed to an independent "fire district", which would be run by an elected board of directors with autonomous taxing powers.)

"Eventually the Valley will probably be in one fire district, including the Village and Service Area 43," Thigpen said. "But for this to happen, the mid-Valley is going to have

Italic writing course to start at All Saints Day School

Mrs. Peter Farmer, internationally-known calligrapher and designer, will offer courses in Italic handwriting and silk screening at All Saints' Episcopal Day School in Carmel Valley this month.

The silk screening course, which will concentrate exclusively on the hand-cut lacquer film method, will run from Wednesday, June 23 through Tuesday, June 29, 9:30-11:30 a.m. A donation of $20 to All Saints' Day School will be accepted for the course.

No previous knowledge of special skills is required. Both courses are open to adults and to children of junior and senior high school age.

effort to set up Mid Valley fire protection something to sell the other districts, which means we need a fire house and equipment."

Thigpen said he felt that the fact-finding committee established by the CVPOA had served its primary purpose, and that actual development of a service area should be up to a general committee of residents from all parts of the mid-Valley.

Bill Brown of Meadows Road, an insurance agent who has worked on the problem with Thigpen, has offered to spearhead the community effort to win approval for a service area from the Local Agency Formation Commission and the Board of Supervisors.

The CVPOA directors voted to donate $50 to Brown's committee to help publicize the need for a service area and the anticipated cost of fire protection.

Brown said he hopes to call a public meeting on July 15 in the mid-Valley, at which time information on costs will be presented to residents. He said the proposed service area would cover the general populated portion of the Valley between Rancho Fiesta on the east and the San Carlos Ranch road on the west, including the populated area of Robinson Canyon Road but not the San Carlos Ranch or the gun club.

At the July 15 meeting Brown hopes to collect signatures of at least 10 percent of the registered voters in the affected area for presentation to the County Board of Supervisors. The service would have to be approved and certified by the Secretary of State in Sacramento by December 31 in order to go on the tax rolls as of January, 1972.

This timing is considered critical since the affected area will lose its county-subsidized fire protection from the State Forestry station at Carmel Hill on July 1, 1972.

Thigpen said it is likely the new service area would require a tax of around $1 per $100 assessed valuation to begin with, to cover the cost of new equipment, a fire station and salaries for a minimum of eight men.

Efforts will be made to locate the fire house on a two-acre parcel across from Carmelo School on the north side of Carmel Valley Road. The land was deeded to the school district by the Meadows estate, and permission must be obtained from heirs of the estate to allow part of it to be used for a fire station.

The CVPOA directors also voted to hold a general membership meeting on Thursday, July 8, to discuss fire protection issues involving all of Carmel Valley.

The general meeting will discuss not only formation of a service area for the mid-Valley, but the problems of fire protection in Robles del Rio and the over-all situation in the Valley regarding fire insurance and rising costs.

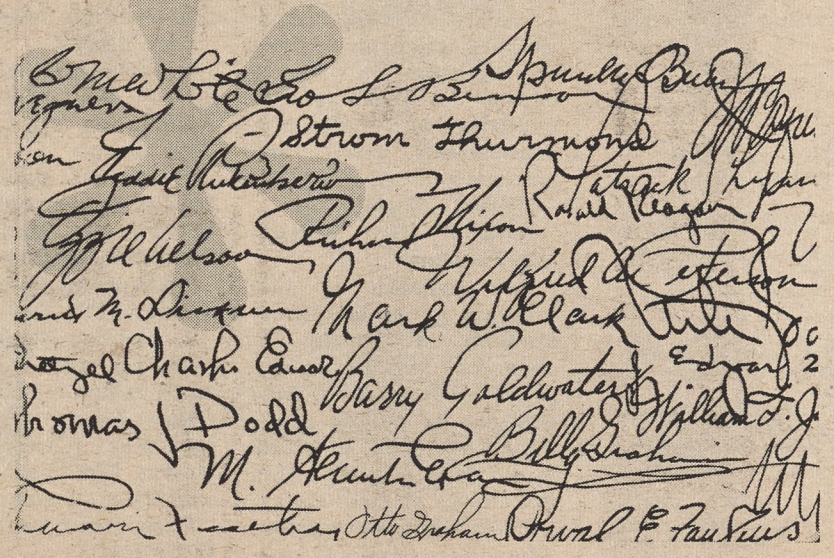
Here's a $3.00 gift for your son, grandson or neighbor that will return dividends.

here's how by who's who

A Compilation of Messages From Successful Men, Directed to the Youth of America, in the Hope that Herein will be Found a Spark of Inspiration that will Point the Way to Individual Achievement.

By Jesse Grover Bell



"Here's How By Who's Who" is a book of advice to the boys of America. The chapters were written personally by our Nation's leaders...Richard Nixon, Ronald Reagan, Douglas MacArthur, Herbert Hoover and fifty-two others. Each man contributed a message, his photograph, and his autograph.

The book was compiled by the late J. G. Bell, board chairman of Bonne Bell, Inc., to provide inspiration and guidance for the boys and young men of America. He personally contacted prominent men in government, business entertainment and other fields to ask their cooperation. Such men as those listed above, plus Lawrence Welk, Everett Dirksen, Mark Clark and Barry Goldwater (to name a few) personally wrote letters for the book.

Mr. Bell published this book at his own expense, and made it available at low cost for the benefit of Boys Club of America.

We have obtained a limited quantity of the first edition, published in 1956 and now out-of-print. There won't be any more—so this is really a collector's item, as well as a good book for now and future generations...for your son, grandson or neighbor boy.

To obtain a copy, send your check for $3 (plus tax) with the coupon..or bring it to our offices at 600 South Main Street, in Salinas. If you are not delighted, we will gladly refund your money.

BUT - ACT NOW. Supplies really are limited (and that's NOT just an advertising gimmick)...and it will have to be "first come - first served." No phone orders, please.

TO: Dick Bragg Agency, 600 S Main St., Salinas 93901

Enclosed is my check for $3.00 (plus tax). Send me a copy of "Here's How By Who's Who." If not satisfied, I will return the book within five days and my money will be refunded.

BY MRS. B.C. FORRESTER

Perhaps you do not know the word 'omelette' means a thin blade, and comes from the Latin word lamelle, and entered French as la melle. But the French already had a word "alemette" which meant the thin blade of a sword. Before we knew it l'alemelle was being spelled l'alemette and later on, l'omelette. You see it has practically nothing to do with eggs, and is really a thin blade, unless our forefathers cracked the eggs on the edge of a sword. Be that as it may, there are few dishes so experimented with as the omelette, and I shall give you a few of those recipes:

VEGETABLE OMELETTE from Italy

2 pounds zucchini, diced — 5 tbsp. olive oil
1 large onion, chopped — 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1 green pepper, chopped — 2 or 3 sprigs parsley, minced
1 clove garlic, minced — 1 tsp. each basil and oregano
3 celery tops, finely chopped — salt and pepper to taste

5 eggs — ½ cup of milk
salt and pepper — ½ cup grated sharp cheese — Paprika

Stir diced zucchini, onion, green pepper, garlic, parsley, and celery tops into hot olive oil in a heavy frying pan; cover and cook over low heat, stirring frequently, until zucchini is lightly browned and wilted. Add tomato sauce, and seasonings; mix thoroughly. Return to low heat and simmer until mixture is moist but not soupy.

Beat eggs, add milk, salt and pepper. Pour over hot zucchini mixture.

Cover and cook until eggs begin to set. Keep heat low.

Sprinkle with grated cheese and paprika. Slip under broiler until lightly browned.

Cut in wedges to serve. When used as a main dish serves 6.

FRITATAS CON ZUCCHINI
(Omelette with zucchini)

1½ pounds zucchini; Pinch thyme and majoram; 2 tablespoons salad oil; 4 eggs; 1 small onion, thinly sliced; ¼ cup cream or undiluted evaporated milk) ½ teaspoon salt

Wash zucchini, cut off ends and slice crosswise in very thin slices. Heat oil in skillet. Add zucchini, onion and herbs; cover and cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, for 8 to 10 minutes, until vegetables are tender and transparent. Be careful not to let them brown. Spread cooked vegetables in a well-greased 9-inch pie dish. Beat eggs slightly and add cream and salt. Pour over vegetables

Set pie plate in a pan of hot water; bake in moderate oven (350 deg) for about 30 minutes, or until custard is firm. Serves 4.

CAR-CIOFI FRITATA
(Artichoke Omelette)

6 small artichokes
¼ cup olive oil
1 clove garlic, minced
2 to 4 tablespoons parsley
½ medium sized onion, thinly sliced
4 eggs
salt and pepper to taste

Remove outside leaves of artichoke until you come to the light colored leaves. Slice off the top. Cut artichokes into ¼ to ½ inch slices lengthwise. Heat olive oil, then add sliced artichokes, garlic and parsley. Cook, stirring frequently until lightly browned. Add onion slices and cook a little longer.

Beat eggs slightly with salt and pepper and pour over artichoke mixture.

Cook very slowly until browned on bottom, turn out on large frying pan lid, and slide back into pan to brown on other side.

Cut in wedges to serve 6 persons.

Recreational trails have high priority in Valley

Monterey County is in a "critical situation" regarding land use, Planning Director Ed DeMars said last week, "because we have 90 percent of the population living on 10 percent of the land.

"So whether you like it or not," he told a luncheon meeting of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce, "we now have a metropolitan area."

De Mars said that Monterey County encompasses two million acres and has a population of 250,000, which theoretically would mean eight acres for each person.

But because population is centered around Salinas and on the Monterey Peninsula, DeMars continued, the northern part of the county has only .8 of an acre per person.

"Thus it becomes obvious that as land develops and freeways go in, many options are closed. It becomes necessary to consider a recreational element in planning ...

"We're gradually being hemmed in by freeways or limited access highways. If we don't provide riding and hiking trails at the time the highways are built, it becomes more difficult to get land in the future."

For these reasons, DeMars said, the plan recently approved for a system of riding and hiking trails throughout the county should be implemented as quickly as possible.

He said top priority should be given for trails from Roach Canyon, east of Del Mesa Carmel, to Jacks Peak Park and then east to Laureles Grade. Bike trails along Highway 68 and Carmel Valley Road are also priority items, he said.

In answer to a question, De Mars said it would be the intention of the County that such recreational trails would be for hikers, horseback riders or bicyclists (along paved road ways) only, and not for "motorized vehicles."

In a short business session before DeMars' talk, members of the Chamber voted to contribute $50 to Camp Amigos, a community-sponsored day camp centered at All Saints' Day School.

The group also approved spending up to $60 to assist the Carmel Valley Lions Club sponsor the Soapbox Derby on July 18.

It was also announced that Congressman Burt Talcott will meet with members of the chamber of commerce at a breakfast meeting Saturday morning at Rancho Canada Golf Club.

Bob Jones and Bill Stone to play leads at Studio

The lead roles of Finch and Biggley in "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying," opening Friday at the Stuido Theatre-Restaurant, will be played by Robert D. Jones and William F. Stone, jr.

Jones was in "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof," "Oklahoma!" and "The Public Eye" for the Little Theater of the Naval Postgraduate School where he recently received his M.S. in Oceanography.

Stone, popular art teacher at Carmel High School, participated in "Carnival" and "Dracula" there and did the production design of "Carousel" which played at Sunset a short time ago.

In the role of Frump which brought fame to Charles Nelson Reilly in the Broadway production is Michael Byrne, formerly a drama major at St. Mary's University, San Antonio, and now a recreation specialist at D.L.I.

Claudia Landon, playing Rosemary, has studied voice with Nancy Ness Bowman and acting with Marcia Hovick. She has been in "Anything Goes" and "Life With Father" at the Circle.

Sherry Steffens as the sultry Hedy draws on professional experience on the Red Skelton and Steve Allen shows, following four years in productions at U.C. Berkeley and UCLA.

The rest of the cast includes such mainstays of the local theatre as Betty Hughes ("The Women"), J.C. Hale ("Guys And Dolls"), John Sullivan ("There's A Girl In My Soup"), and Pete Hanson ("Sweet Charity"). Others in supporting roles are Karen Bevelander, Susan Claypool, Cheryl-Ann Cox, Judy Lozen, Elaine O'Connell, Buz Childers, Mark Thompson and Scott Wood.

To the accompaniment of a Frank Loesser score, the Abe Burrows script adapted from Shepherd Mead's novel of the same name tells the story of Finch's rapid rise from the mail room to the executive suite of J.B. Biggley's World Wide Wicket Company in the face of some nasty curves thrown his way by rival Frump. One sinister ploy is to entice him with Hedy which nearly breaks up his romance with Rosemary.

Under the direction of Bill Asp, "How To Succeed" will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights for the next two weekends, after which it will run nightly except Monday and Tuesday through July 24. Reservations for all performances may be made at 624-1661 or 624-2321.

'Man of La Mancha' returns for 25 more performances

Returning to the Monterey Peninsula by request is Dale Wasserman's play, "Man of La Mancha." Directed by Michael Keller, the production will be performed at the Circle Theater in Carmel as a presentation of the Community Theater of the Monterey Peninsula.

Earlier in the year the play ran for 20 performances and was a complete sell-out. The summer production will run from June 18 through July 24 for a total of 25 evenings only. Advanced reservations are strongly recommended.

The cast is backed by an eight-piece orchestra including flamenco guitars, piano, flute, bass, trumpet and drums. The intimacy of the Circle Theatre and the enclosing prison walls put the audience alongside Don Quixote as he fights his way past windmills to reach "the impossible dream."

The lighting is controlled by George Ennis and Cappy McCloud.

Reservations for all performances may be made now by calling the theatre box office at 624-2669.
